All exhibitors are responsible for ensuring they comply with relevant UK health, safety and trading regulations while exhibiting at our events.

Please ensure you have considered the following:

- You hold valid Public Liability Insurance (documentation may be requested).
- Your stand, products and activities do not pose a risk to visitors, neighbouring exhibitors or venue staff.
- All displays, furniture and stock remain within your booked stand space and do not obstruct aisles, fire exits or access routes.
- Electrical equipment is safe, in good working order and PAT tested where applicable.
- No trailing cables, trip hazards or unstable displays are present.

Product-specific considerations:

- Candles / wax melts must comply with UK safety regulations. No naked flames may be lit on stands unless expressly agreed in advance.
- Food & drink exhibitors must be registered with their local authority, comply with food hygiene regulations and clearly display allergen information.
- Cosmetics, skincare and wellness products must meet UK regulations, with appropriate insurance and ingredient information available.
- Sharp items or tools must be displayed and handled safely, with care taken around children.

Fire safety & compliance:

- Fire exits and emergency routes must be kept clear at all times.
- Exhibitors must follow all venue fire and safety procedures.
- Risk assessments may be requested where required.
- The organisers reserve the right to request changes or removal of any unsafe items.
